

Table of contents

Acknowledgmentsiii
Tablesvii
Figuresix
Executive summaryxi

Chapters

1 How Medicare pays for services: an overview	1
Key structural elements of Medicare’s prospective payment systems	5
Acute inpatient services	10
Ambulatory care	15
Post-acute care	22
Services for special populations	27
Other services	29
Medicare+Choice plans	31
Further information on how Medicare pays for services	32
2 Assessing payment adequacy and updating payments in traditional Medicare	35
2A Accounting for changes in input prices	47
Why measure input prices?	50
How to measure input prices	50
Input price indexes used by CMS	50
Treatment of labor costs in input price indexes	51
2B Hospital inpatient and outpatient services	55
Assessing payment adequacy	58
Update recommendation	64
2C Physician services	71
Assessing payment adequacy	75
Accounting for cost changes in the coming year	77
Update recommendation	80
2D Skilled nursing facility services	83
Assessing payment adequacy	86
Accounting for cost changes in the coming year	89
Update recommendation	89

2E Home health services	91
Assessing payment adequacy	94
Accounting for cost changes in the coming year	96
Update recommendation	96
2F Outpatient dialysis services	99
Assessing payment adequacy	102
Accounting for cost changes in the coming year	106
Update recommendation	107
3 Paying for new technology in the outpatient prospective payment system	109
Development of the outpatient payment system	112
Approaches to paying for new technology	112
How technology is paid for under the outpatient payment system	113
Systemic problems with the pass-through payments	114
Alternatives for paying for technology used in outpatient departments	116
Improving the pass-through system	117
4 What next for Medicare+Choice?	121
Problems with the Medicare+Choice payment system	124
A better payment system	126
Could competitive bidding improve a financially neutral payment system?	129
Appendixes
A The construct of Medicare price indexes	135
B A data book on hospital financial performance	143
C Commissioners' voting on recommendations	159
Acronyms	165
More about MedPAC
Commission members	171
Commissioners' biographies	173
Commission staff	179